

Focused on finding talent.

In today's energy market, with special focus being given to renewable forms, such as solar and wind power, it is increasingly important to locate the best talent and skill sets to get the job done. Here at The Chatham Group, we understand that the renewable energy industry has increased fourfold to $120 Billion in 2008 and that the federal budget supports a dramatic shift to renewable energy by 2010. We understand the markets, technologies and issues that are facing the renewable energy industry in today's environment and can offer solutions to help your company's hiring needs. We have worked with many fortune-500 companies and have placed many experts in the industry that have dramatically benefited their organization. Let us locate the best possible fit for your unique renewable energy needs.
